

CHRIS LOBSINGER has sung since she was a wee tyke. A couple years back one of her sisters said, “Do you realize you hum all the time?” and Chris said, “Yea, don’t you?” She’s the lab manager and bacteriologist for the Poultry Research Lab at UGA, which supports the poultry industry worldwide. A charter member of the Athens Lyric League, she also sings with the Athens Choral Society. Chris was the caretaker for her elders for many years. She is cheerful, funny and loving with a warm, rich, and expressive voice.